Air Ambulance PHI offering membership

By Debbie Dennie, Editor

PHI Cares is offering a membership program to Pendleton County residents and surrounding areas that is too good to pass up. They are doing a membership drive that started on April 1 and you or a member of your household can join for only $40. That household membership includes all members of a single family with up to three non-family members. It is good for one year.

This membership drive can save your thousands later on. The average flight cost $20,000. Membership covers medically necessary trans-ports by PHI Air Medical to the closest appropriate facility within 200 miles for a rotarywing helicopter. Medicaid participants are not eligible for membership.

You may not plan on using their service but you never know when you or a family member is involved in an accident and needs to be transported by an air ambulance. Seconds can make the difference when you have a stroke or suffer a heart attack or a serious car accident. The last thing you should be concerned with during that emergency is air transportation costs. PHI is on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

As a member, when transported by PHI Air Medical or one of our service lines, you will never have any out-ofpocket expenses for medically necessary transports.

By becoming a member of PHI Cares, you help to ensure that this vital, life saving resource remains a viable service to your friends and neighbors. Your membership also helps to purchase equipment See PHI Page 5

Easter Bunny collects old glasses for Lion's Club

The weather was perfect for the annual Lion's Club Easter Egg Hunt held at Southern Elementary this past Satarday. Lots of children came out to hunt the eggs. Besides hunting the Easter eggs children brought old eye glasses to give to Lion's Club members. The lenses are used to help make glasses for those that need them but do not have the money to purchase them. Little Tyson Sargent had to have a little push to give the Easter Bunny the old eye glasses he and his brother brought. Those bringing eye glasses Saturday were: Austin Noah, Nathen Kincaid, Keelie Soto, Cainan Nelly, Megan Nelly, Sierra Bowen, Caidence Bowen, Tyler Barfield, Ian and Tyson Sargent and Aiden Northcutt. If you have old eye glasses gather them up and give them to a Lion's Club member. Miss Haley Hart was dressed as the Easter Bunny. The candy was donated by Pendleton County Student Council for those donating glasses. Photograph of the Easter Egg Hunt winners are pictured inside on Page 5. Photo by D. Dennie.

Falmouth's Iron Man, Bob Wiggins

By Keaton Belcher

Bob Wiggins has been to more Kentucky basketball games than anybody else in the world. The Falmouth native has been a UK season ticket holder since 1954 and has seen a total of 1,546 games in person. At one time, he didn't miss a game for 19 straight seasons. Wiggins has seen everything imaginable that a Kentucky basketball fan could see. He's attended a game at all three home venues-Alumni Gymnasium, Memorial Coliseum and Rupp Arena. He's been present to see Kentucky win five national championships. He's even heard Adolph Rupp chew out his players during a halftime speech.

Born on February 4, 1928 Robert Neal Wiggins was raised in Pendleton County and graduated from Falmouth High School in 1947. When asked if he played basketball in high school he laughed and said, "I tried." Wiggins played guard, and lettered four years, for coach Cecil Hellard during the mid 1940's. After high school he immediately went to work for the Kentucky Highway Department as an engineer and stayed there for 41 years before retiring. "I saved all of my vacation days for UK games," Wiggins said.

Bob Wiggins needed plenty of vacation days for 30+ games per season. His streak of attend-November 1996 due to a heart attack he suffered three hours before the team boarded a plane to head to the Great Alaskan Shootout. "I tried to talk the doctor into letting me go on the trip, but she wouldn't let me," Wiggins said. He missed four games that season and when the team returned from the trip he began another

Pendleton County Wildcats senior Jared Rering became the second athlete of the day on April 6 to declare his intentions to continue playing basketball when he signed a Letter of Intent with Kentucky Christian University. Just moments before, Rering's best friend and teammate, Gabe Antrobus, also made the choice to attend the university. "I'm excited to be able to play basketball at the college level and alongside my best friend Gabe. It's been a dream of ours to play college ball together for a long time and it looks like it just may come true," said Rering. The senior forward played four years with the Wildcats and helped the team secure three district championships in that time period. His senior year he led the team in rebounds and contributed to their 18 wins. He also earned All Region Honorable Mention honors. "I'm excited about attending KCU and would like to thank everyone who helped me get where I am today," said Rering. "Without all your support, this wouldn't be possible. I'd also like to thank my little sister Randi. She's been a huge inspiration to me and makes me try as hard as I can." His sister, Randi, recently underwent a liver transplant and is currently recuperating in the hospital. Rering is the son of Timothy and Pamela Rering of California, Kentucky. "His father and I are very excited for him. We're thrilled," said Pamela. "This has always been his dream and he's waited a long time to accomplish it. We're proud of him." KCU. Coach Reed is also excited to have the pair (Rering and Antrobus) playing for the university's basketball program this year. "They'll both get a chance to play college basketball while securing a good education," said coach Reed. "We pride ourselves with players of good character that are close to one another, a team, and they both are certainly the types of people we look for. I can't say enough good things about them." KSP conducting traffic safety check points in Pendleton

The Kentucky State Police at Dry Ridge will be conducting safety checkpoints throughout the post district. These check points will be set up at designated areas on highways where statistics have shown an elevated number of vehicle crashes. During the check points officers will be enforcing laws related to: operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of drugs or alcohol, licensing of motor vehicles and operators, registration and insurance violations, seat belt and child restraint violations along with motor vehicle equipment violations.

In Pendleton County the check points are listed as between: mile point .349 and See KSP Page 5

Letter of Intent with Kentucky Christian University

Pendleton County Wildcats varsity basketball player Gabe Antrobus signed a Letter of Intent with Kentucky Christian University to continue his career at the collegiate level on Friday, April 6. Family, friends and teammates were on-hand to witness the event. Antrobus played guard for four years with the Wildcats and helped the team win three district titles. During his senior year, he led the team in three-pointers and steals while earning All-Region Honorable Mention honors. He ended his high school career with over 800 total points scored. He will depart for KCU later this year where he plans to major in psychology. "I'd just like to thank my family, friends and coaches for supporting me throughout my career," said a grateful Antrobus. "I'd also like to say a special thanks to Coach Sowder who always went that extra mile for me when I needed him for anything." Antrobus will join his best friend and Wildcat teammate, Jared Rering, on the KCU. Knights basketball team under the guidance of coach Ron Reed. "I'm very excited about having them (Antrobus and Rering) join us this year," said coach Reed. "They both have a great work ethic and their athletic skills will definitely make us a better team." Gabe Antrobus is the son of Todd Antrobus of Lexington, Kentucky and Sherry Antrobus of Butler. Pictured above, from left: Gabe's brother, Michael Antrobus, mother, Sherry Antrobus, Gabe Antrobus, KCU coach Ron Reed, sister, Morgan Antrobus, and Wildcats coach Chad Simms. Bringing awareness of Child Abuse Prevention during April Kentucky has already seen the destructive power of nature as storms and tornadoes have hit several communities across the commonwealth this spring. There have been lives lost, whole communities devastated and families uprooted from their homes.

There's another storm raging across Kentucky that can prove just as fatal and just as damaging. Child abuse and neglect hits thousands of homes in Kentucky every year. In 2011 alone, there were nearly 10,000 substantiated cases of abuse and neglect, involving more than 15,500 children. Over the past five years, at least 141 children have died as a result of abuse and neglect in Kentucky. In most cases, there are warning signs of child abuse and neglect and it's up to us to sound the alarm so these children can find shelter and refuge. April is Child Abuse Prevention Month and it serves as a reminder that we have an obligation to protect the innocent young people in our com-

If you suspect a child is being abused or neglected, you should immediately contact the Kentucky Child Abuse Reporting Hotline at 1-800-752-6200. This number is answered 24-hours a day, seven days a week. You can also report suspected child abuse to your county's Child Protective Services Office, the local police or to the county attorney's office.

State confidentiality laws will protect your identity and the report will be followed up by an investigation by Child Protective Services to determine if the report can be substantiated. Your call can literally save the life of a young person who may be in

You can also help after the storm has passed. Just as volunteers pitched in to help tornado victims recover from nature's wrath, the children who are harmed in abusive and neglectful homes need immediate care and shelter. For more than 143 years, Sunrise Children's Services has been a place of refuge for hurting children, and today we continue to offer that in the form of a statewide network of residential programs and foster homes.

We are constantly looking for new foster parents to open up their homes to the young victims who need love and security. If you'd like to learn more about how you can help Kentucky's hurting children, visit us at www. sunrise.org.

LEGISLATIVE PERSPECTIVE ON KENTUCKY GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Representative Tom McKee

On Thursday of this week, General Assembly returns for the legislative session's final day, which is traditionally set aside for considering any vetoes the governor may issue.

This year, however, there will also be other work done during that time, which is expected to include passing the state's road plan, approving a major initiative designed to crack down on prescription drug abuse and giving the go-ahead to an innovative proposal that will use coal-severance dollars to boost the number of four-year college degrees in coal-producing counties.

Each of those would be sizeable accomplishments, and would complement many other noteworthy bills that are now either law or should soon be.

For our region, that includes a plan to give a much-needed tax break to those areas hardest hit by storms in late February and on March 2nd. Those with damaged property will now be able to get a rebate on their sales tax for building materials, as long as they are rebuilding in the same county where the damage occurred.

In addition, this law will ensure that schools forced to close because of these storms will not lose any state funding as a result. Teachers and staff alike will also not be adversely affected finan-

One of the bills about to become law that I was proud to sponsor will set the stage for a permanent memorial for those brave Kentucky soldiers who died while fighting in Iraq and Afghanistan. There have been more than 110, which includes the six who perished during Operation Desert Storm in the early 1990s.

A new committee will look later this year for the best locations for this memorial and will oversee design and fund-raising as well. As we reduce our presence in these two countries, we in the General Assembly feel now is the best time to honor those who gave the ultimate sacrifice, rather than waiting.

There are several other bills passing the House and Senate this year that will benefit veterans or those still serving. One new law, for example, will include a veterans designation on driver's licenses, so that those who qualify can quickly prove it without carrying other papers. Another will provide adoption-assistance funding for those in the National Guard.

The budget gives authorization for the state's fourth nursing home for veterans, if the federal government approves, and there will be further steps to establish Kentucky's fifth veterans cemetery, which will be located in I hope to hear from you soon.

southeastern Kentucky.

In matters of public safety, the General Assembly has passed two new laws that tackle synthetic drugs and meth. Under the first, we broadened the definition for these drugs, so that it will be much tougher to evade the law by changing the drug's formula slightly. There will also be much stiffer penalties for establishments that choose to sell these poisons, which are sometimes known as 'bath salts' because they are intentionally mislabeled.

To reduce the amount of meth being produced in Kentucky, the General Assembly has set some reasonable limits on the purchase of pseudoephedrine, which can be found in such products as Sudafed. The goal is to make sure those who truly need this still have access while hopefully limiting those who only want the medicine because it is meth's key ingredient. Under this new plan, the limit for purchase without a prescription is 7.2 grams of pseudoephedrine a month and 24 grams a year. A standard box with 48 pills – each having a 30 milligram dosage – amounts to 1.44 grams; that means someone could buy five boxes of tablets a month without a prescription. It is very important to point out this law does not apply to gel tabs or liq-uid form of the medicine, both of which are very difficult to use to manufacture meth.

In addition to this change, those convicted of meth-related crimes will not be allowed to purchase the cold medicine for up to

Some of the other bills that have been sent to Governor Beshear will do such things as give Toyota, GM and several large auto parts company access to the same type of tax incentives given to Ford in 2007, if they make at least a $100 million investment.

Another will ensure that businesses will not lose a federal tax credit worth up to $600 million. This could have happened if the General Assembly did not pass a plan to pay off the interest on the sizeable federal loan the unemployment insurance fund had to obtain to maintain benefits.

For farmers, one of the bills poised to become law this year is the "Farms for Food Banks" provision on your state income tax, so you can contribute part of your refund if you'd like.

I want to thank those who have contacted me this legislative session, and encourage you to continue letting me know your views throughout the year. If you would like to write, my address is Room 332B, Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601.

You can also leave a message for me or for any legislator at 800-372-7181. For those with a hearing impairment, the number is 800-896-0305.

April is national child abuse prevention month

April to be National Child Abuse Prevention Month. Since that time, communities across opportunity to raise awareness of issues surrounding child maltreatment and abuse through proclamations, ceremonies, educational forums, tributes and candlelight vigils. April is a time to look back, to acknowledge the children who have suffered and the losses sustained throughout our communities because of that suffering. But it is also a time to look forward-most of all to a time when children no longer have to live in fear.

In 1989, the Blue Ribbon Campaign to Prevent Child Abuse had its early beginnings as a Virginia grandmother's tribute to her grandson who died as a result of abuse. She tied a blue ribbon to the antenna of her car as a way to remember him and Ribbon Campaign has since expanded across the country and many wear blue ribbons each April in memory of those who have died as a result of child abuse. In other communities, special fund raiser are held to support prevention activities and treatment facilities for victims, and candlelight vigils are held as a remembrance. Most recently, the focus has shifted toward a more positive message of celebrating "blue ribbon" individuals, organizations, and communities who have done much to prevent child abuse and Nearly five children die every day in America from abuse and neglect. In 2010, an estimated 1,560 children died from abuse and neglect in the United States. In the same year, Children's Advocacy Centers around the country served over 266,000 child victims of abuse, providing victim advocacy and support to these children and their families. In 2011, this number was over 279,000.

In 2004, there was emerging consensus among national child abuse prevention organizations and related Federal agencies that building public will for child abuse prevention required engaging the public in efforts to strengthen and support families and enhance parenting skills. Building on this national momentum, OCAN shifted the focus of its child abuse prevention resources to incorporate a family strengthening message promoting parenting and community support. Today, the Child Abuse Prevention Initiative is an opportunity for communities across the country to keep children safe, provide the support families need to stay together, and raise children and youth to be happy, secure, and stable adults.

skyrocket, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), which released new figures showing a 23% increase from 2006 to 2008. One in 88 American children are now on the autism spectrum, the CDC said, up from 1 in 110. The figures are even higher for boys, with 1 in 54, eight year olds now counted on the spectrum. The number of people diagnosed with autism has increased dramatically since the 1980s, partly due to changes in diagnostic practice; the question of whether actual prevalence has increased is unre-

golfer to win the Masters

Autism is a disorder of neural development characterized by impaired social interaction and communication, and by restricted and repetitive behavior. These signs all begin before a child is three years old. No single repetitive or self-injurious behavior seems to be specific to autism, but only autism appears to have an elevated pattern of occurrences and severity of these behaviors. It is one of three recognized disorders in the autism spectrum (ASDs), the other two being Asperger syndrome, which lacks delays in cognitive development and language, and Pervasive Development Disorder-Not Otherwise Specified (commonly abbreviated as PDD-NOS), which is diagnosed when the full set of criteria for autism or Asperger syndrome are not met.

Parents usually notice signs in the first two years of their child's life. The signs usually develop gradually, but some autistic children first develop more normally and then regress. Early behavioral or cognitive intervention can help autistic children gain self-care, social, and communication skills.

There is no known cure, but some cases of children recovering have been reported. Not many children with autism are able to live independently after reaching adulthood, but some become successful.

Autism is a highly variable neurodevelopmental disorder. Overt symptoms gradually begin after six months and become established by two to three years. People with autism have social impairments and often lack the intuition about others that many people take for granted. Unusual social development becomes apparent early in childhood. About a third to a half of individual with autism do not develop enough natural speed to meet their daily communication needs. It has long been presumed that there is a common cause at the genetic, cognitive, and neural levels of autism's characteristic triad of symptoms. However, there is increasing suspicion that autism is instead a complex disorder whose core aspects have distinct causes that often co-occur. Autism has a strong genetic basis, although the genetics of autism are complex and it is unclear whether ASD is explained more by rare mutations with major effects, or by rare multigene interactions of common genetic variants. Parents may first become aware of autistic symptoms in their child around the time of a routine vaccination. This has led to unsupported theories blaming vaccine "overload," a vaccine preservative, or the MMR vaccine for causing autism.

Autism's symptoms result form maturation-related changes in various systems of the brain. How autism occurs is not well understood. Unlike many other brain disorders, such as Parkinson's, autism does not have a clear unifying mechanism at either the molecular, cellular, or systems level.

Diagnosis is based on behavior, not cause or mechanism. A pediatrician commonly performs a preliminary investigation by taking developmental history and physically examining the child. Clinical genetics

The main goals when treating children with autism are to lessen associated deficits and family distress, and to increase quality of life and functional independence. Families and the educational system are the main resource for treatment. Educational interventions can be effective to varying degrees in most children. Many medications are used to treat ASD symptoms that interfere with integrating a child into home or school when behavioral treatment fails. Although many alternative therapies and interventions are available, few are supported by scientific studies. Treatment is expensive; indirect costs are more so.

There is no know cure. Children recover occasionally, so that they lose their diagnosis of ASD. This occurs sometimes after intensive treatment and sometimes not. It is not know how often recovery happens. Reported rates in un-selected samples of children with ASD have ranged from 3% to 25%. PUBLIC NOTICE

Southern and Northern Elementary fifth-graders visit NKU

Fifth graders from Northern and Southern Elementary visited Northern Kentucky University on "Spirit Day," Thursday, March 22. Some then wrote about their experiences at the university. Following are three essays written by

Spirit Day at NKU

By Rebecca Darling
Gold, black, and Vikings. What do all these things have in common? NKU of course. On Thursday, March 22, myself and 200 other students from Southern and Northern Elementary went to NKU's spirit day. We went to not only get a college sneak peek, but to also learn about the arts and things such as math, chemistry, and literature. I took part in dance and planetari-

The first session I took part in was Dance. We got to learn moves from the big dance number "You Can't Stop the Beat" from the movie/musical "Hairspray." We were taught by none other than the Dance Tour Troupe, the amazing dance group from NKU. It was so much fun and if I do say so myself (and I do), we were keeping up with them pretty well.

The second session I went to was the planetarium. We got to go to NKU's and see a movie called The Seven Wonders of the World. Which was not only cool (because of the fact that planetariums are very interesting to look at), but we got to learn a lot too. Like, did you know that there is a star 10 light years away from earth that could explode at any moment and that would have the biggest explosion in recorded history?

Finally, we finished off the day with some lemonade, pizza, and music. It was so awesome! Learning the dance moves from Dance Tour Troupe, going to see the planetarium. All of it is loads of

Big Man on Campus By Dontaie Allen

Guess what? The best university on the planet...The University of Northern Kentucky. It was so fun and crazy I decided to write and tell about it. So today (March 22, 2012), I went (to NKU). My classes were chemistry and planetarium.

First, I want to tell you about chemistry. Although I was late for that class, I still got in for the fun part. The first thing Dr. Vern Hicks (my chemistry teacher) did, was put some kind of black liquid into a coke bottle then poured some clear fizzy stuff in the bottle and it started to fizz up the whole chemistry class. It was a big huge powdered layer of fog and then he got some kind of bowl with nitrogen in it. So then he dropped a bowl in it and picked it up with a long-like stick and the ball was frozen but I, and my class couldn't tell. So we said, "what's so special about a ball?" So then he said, "watch as I throw this ball at the wall". As it hit the wall, it seemed as if 1,000 pieces scattered onto the floor, and my whole class was dashing to grab a Second....the planetarium. Although I couldn't find an open seat with by buddy, Hayden, it all went well. In the planetarium, it's kind of like the Omnimax if you ever heard of it. It's also 3-D but that's not the best part, the best part is we learned about the World Wonders. By the way, there are only seven of them. In the video, I found out that four out of seven of them were taken When 1 by eartnquakes. head that, I was like (Wow)! Also, then to see it first hand was devastating. Besides that, it was cool, awesome, and fun.

Besides being late to my classes and you laughing at me, I want to say that I had a lot of tun telling you about my big adventure to Northern Kentucky University. I informed you about the classes I had taken there and how fun they all were. For once, school was actually fun.

Rockin' Road Trip!!! By Lydia Whiteford

Do you know who went to N.K.U. on March 22? Mrs. Tackett's fifth grade class and the rest of Southern and Northern Elementary's fifth grade. There were about 200 students there!! That is a lot. We went for N.K.U Spirit Day. The person's name who made it all possible is Melanie Hartzel. There were many classes offered but the two I chose Planetarium and Dance. At the Haile digital Planetarium we traveled back in time to see the original buildings of the Seven Wonders of the World. They are in Egypt, Turkey, Iraq, and Greece. The seven wonders of the world are the Lighthouse of Alexandria, the Great Pyramids, the Mausoleum, the Hanging Gardens, the temples of Zeus and Artemis, and the Island of were to go to the Haile Digital

When we went to dance we got to see Dance Tour Troupe perform. Also, we got to dance part of a dance that they actually performed. It was a song from the musical Hairspray and it was very fun. We broke up into three groups. Even though we all learned the same part, we got to see each group perform. My group was the winner.

Now you know what I did and also the rest of Southern and Northern Elementary 5th grade class. My two sessions I took were to go to the Haile Digital Planetarium and dance. N.K.U. Spirit Day was very fun. I thank N.Ř.U. for inviting us to Spirit Day. I also thank Melanie Hartzel, the lady who put it all together.

Students in sixth through 12th grades analyze the historical significance of certain topics and present conclusions in dramatic performances, imaginative exhibits, multimedia documentaries, websites and research papers. The theme for this year's contest is "Revolution, Reaction, Reform in History."

firmed that students who participate in National History Day outperform their non-participating peers in all subjects, not just history. They are better-prepared for college, are better writers and researchers and more confident in their abilities. Also, by researching the past, they become enthusiastic about history and its relevance to their lives today," said Cheryl Caskey, KHS student programs coordinator.

Wildcats baseball on three-game winning streak

March might come in as a lamb and go out like a lion but in Pendleton County, April started like a Wildcat as they won four of five during the week with a varsity doubleheader sweep of Eminence and two Varsity/JV doubleheader sweeps of Frankfort and Williamstown. The only bump in the road was a Bracken County loss. With the strong first week of April, the Cats ran their record to 7-4 for the season.

While the first week of the season was wet and cancelled every game, the next three weeks has seen plenty of baseball played. Compared to last year that is. In coach Josh Hamm's first season, the Cats only played 25 games for the season. At this point, their record stood at 3-4 and they had played seven games. This year, they have won seven games. The JV played only 30 innings the entire season. Presently, they stand at 5-1 and have played 22 innings. On the three-game winning streak and start of the season, coach Hamm seemed pleased. "We are 7-4 through the beginning part of the schedule and have played pretty much to our potential. We were a little flat versus Bracken County and didn't compete, but overall pretty happy with the start of the season." While the entire state was prepping for UK winning a national championship on Monday, the Cats were traveling the curvy 22 to Williamstown to play a V/JV DH. Williamstown jumped out early on Brent Jacob scoring one in the first while the Cats stomachs were trying to calm down from the bus ride

In the third, Dustin Wanner got the offense started on a personal stellar offensive night for him. He hit a double in the third, one of three that he would hit on a 4-5 night. He would also score once and drive in two.

Brent Jacob would single to move him to third but when Evan Spicer grounded to third base, Dustin would be cut down at the plate. Austin Reed would bring Brent home on a fielder's choice. Pinch runner Trevor Turner took the third baseman's legs out from underneath him on a good, aggressive slide and when the ball hit the dirt, all hands were safe and the score was tied at 1-1. Trevor would later score on a wild pitch to give the Cats a 2-1

Williamstown would tie it up in their bottom of the third but Pendleton would take the lead back in the fifth. Evan Spicer led off with a single, advanced on a single by Austin Reed and scored on a grounder by Austin Pyles that the Williamstown shortstop couldn't handle.

Brent helped his own cause in the sixth with a two RBI single driving in Josh Brown who had singled and Dustin who had hit his third double of the game. Evan Spicer's single drove in Brent.

PC played add-on in the seventh with a Mahlon White sacrifice sandwiched around walks to Tyler Daugherty, Seth Courtney and Josh Brown, Dustin picked up his fourth hit of the game driving in two more runs.

After a disappointing loss 8-1 to Bracken County on Tuesday, the Cats had rain outs on Wednesday and Thursday but traveled to Frankfort to play in the shadow of the state's Capitol Building. This bus ride was easier on their stomachs and they jumped out of the gate early.

Dustin Wanner would be hit by a pitch in his first at bat. It was one of four times he would get plunked in the next three games in less than 24 hours. His picture will be in the Wildcat dictionary beside, "taking one for the team"

Brent legged out an infield hit, Evan Spicer singled and Austin Reed would hustle down the line for another infield hit and a RBI to put the Cats up 1-0.

There was no quieting his bat against Williamstown as he went 4 for 5 with 3 doubles, a RBI and a run scored in the Cats 8-2 victory.

Brent would scamper home on a wild pitch to make it 2-0 after a half of a inning.

The score would stay there till the fourth when Frankfort would dent the plate with an unearned run. It would be the only run that Pendleton would give up in 19 innings versus Frankfort and Eminence. With Brent Jacob, Tyler

Daugherty and Josh Brown getting most of the starts with Dustin Wanner and Seth Courtney providing help in relief, the Cats have shown strong pitching.

"Our rotation is pretty much set at this point," coach Hamm commented on his staff. "Right now, the key is keeping arms healthy and working on mechanics." A key point that would come into play in the second game vs. Eminence.

PC added runs in the fifth when an Evan Spicer RBI single plated Austin Pyles who would reach base in all four plate appearances. Another run crossed the plate on a wild pitch to make the score 4-1 after five.

While it would be all the scoring that Brent would need as he pitched all seven innings giving up a single run while striking out six, the Cats would tack on runs in the sixth and seventh.

Trevor Turner would single and score on Dustin Wanner's ground ball in the sixth. The seventh saw the Cats dent the plate four times with Mack Ramsey, Mahlon White, Austin Pyles and Dustin Wanner all picking up RBI's. Dustin on his second time getting plunked in Saturday, the Cats swept a pair from Éminence behind dominating pitching. Tyler Daugherty won the first game in a complete game shutout. He pitched seven innings and allowed just three hits while striking out five. Josh Brown would pitch the second complete game shutout. He only had to go five innings but struck out seven.

In the first game, the Cats were in a battle as it was a pitcher's duel through five innings with a 0-0 score. The Cats broke through in the sixth as Evan Spicer led off the inning with a single. Mack Ramsey's RBI single would score the first run of the

With a pitching change by Eminence, the Cats had batting practice in the seventh inning as they piled on six runs. Trevor Turner led off with a walk and after two outs, Dustin Wanner picked up an infield hit. Brent lacob drove in two with a single and Evan Spicer plated Brent with a double to right center. After a passed ball moved Jacob Partin, running for Evan, to third base, he would score on Seth Courtney's infield hit. Tyler Daugherty would single and Mack Ramsey would drive in two with his double down the right field line.

Tyler Daugherty would handle the rest as he recorded the last three outs by striking out two and getting a harmless pop up to Mahlon White to end the game. The second game saw the Cats score early and often. They scored twice in the first, thrice in the second, five times in the third, three in the fourth and one in the fifthth inning in a 14-0 shellack-One of the key moments of the game saw freshmen left hander struggling in the fifth with a 14-run lead. He walked the first two batters which prompted a visit from head coach Josh Hamm. "He said everything felt fine.

But all of his pitches were missing the plate on the outside. We moved him on where he started on the pitcher's rubber." Coach Hamm's point earlier about working on mechanics. And it worked as the final three outs of the game were strikeouts. The Cats are on a three-game winning streak that has seemed to be keyed by some lineup changes. Sophomore Trevor Turner has moved into the starting lineup at second base and played solid defense being right in the middle of some key double plays and scored four times in the three Freshmen Mack Ramsev moved into the starting spot at third base on Friday night and shined on the field and at the plate. He had six fielding opportunities Friday night and handled all six flawlessly and drove in a run. On Saturday, he drove in the first run versus Eminence and went 2 of 4 with three RBI's, two runs and two walks. Seth Courtney moved into the DH spot and hit the ball well. He went 3 for 6 and had a RBI and run scored. "I think the lineup changes motived and energized us." coach Hamm said about the moves. "I was glad that we were able to get everyone in the game versus Eminence for some varsity experience. The only two that were not able to play are nursing injuries. Brady Purdy is nursing a knee injury and Austin Reed tweaked a hamstring versus Frankfort.

While other students are home, enjoying their spring break, the PC Boys of Summer are playing baseball. They traveled to 10th Region power Bourbon County yesterday but results were not available at press time.

The JV Cats have been dominating opponents this season. Standing at 5-1, they won both of their matchups this week. Monday at Williamstown, Jonah Smith was on the mound and grinded his way through a fiveinning, complete game victory to go 3-0 for the JV season. PC had the late game on Friday night in Frankfort as the game was called after four innings at 10:30 and the score 13-6. Jacob Partin picked up the victory in his first pitching appearance of the season.

BUTLER UNITED METHODIST

I overheard someone tell Pastor David that our Palm Sunday service was the best they had ever attended. It was a very meaningful and touching service. We all gathered outdoors and proceeded into the sanctuary waving our palm branches, thus beginning the service. During the service David and Rachel sang and played the guitar and members read scripture that lead up to Easter. Communion was also a part of the worship on this special Sunday that began Holy Week.

After service the Relay team met and it was decided to have a yard sale on the first Saturday in

Our church is also offering a Maundy Thursday and Good Friday service this week. Sunrise service for the community will be at Butler Christian Church with David preaching.

We want to invite you to join in the joy and fellowship we experience here at Butler United Methodist Church.

FALMOUTH BAPTIST

We hope you had a blessed Easter. Jesus suffered and died on the cross, but even the grave couldn't hold him. Hallelujah, Christ arose!

Falmouth Baptist Church was well represented in The Outlook last week. Congratulations to Nate Ryan, the 10th Region winner of the 2012 Sweet Sixteen Scholarship, Bruce Anderson, the recipient of the Neal Russell Outstanding Citizenship Award at the North Key Community Center and Randy Bastin, featured past president of the Rotary Club. Congratulations guys!
As we celebrated Palm Sunday and observed the Lord's Supper, we were reminded that we have a limited understanding of what Christ has done for us. Many people still don't get it at all and it's our responsibility to share the gospel with them. We must all understand that He is coming again and it's His desire that none shall perish. We must be prepared. Are you ready? FALMOUTH CHRISTIAN

Our service was opened this week with the children laying palm leaves on the sanctuary in remembrance of the journey Jesus made to Jerusalem on a donkey before His crucifixion, Brother Rick's sermon "The Triumphal Entry" taken from Luke 19:28-44 led us through Christ's final journey and the laying of the palms commemorated this event. Christ's entry to Jerusalem on the donkey lay the groundwork for the days to follow when He would be crucified.

Brother Wayne Keith brought our special music program this week which blessed us all. We are always so blessed to have people who will give of their talents to come and share with us.

If you would or could bring special entertainment to our church, please call us at (859)654-2741. We welcome everyone.

Preparation is being made for the Community of churches Good Friday at 1 p.m. We are also making preparation for our special Easter services on Sunday with sunrise service at 7 a.m. followed by a delicious breakfast, morning service and an Ester egg hunt for the children after church. We are looking forward to a great day of fun and fellowship. Let us never be too busy to remember those with so many needs. Make prayer your priority this week. God never forgets those who put others' needs before their own. Come join us each week for Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and church at 10:45 a.m. Hope your week is filled much love and many blessings.

FIRST BAPTIST

Greetings! Adarin Williams blessed us with special music this Psalm Sunday. Bro. Harry's message was taken from Luke. Jesus was at the Mt. of Olives when He sent two of His disciples ahead to bring back a colt for Him to ride on. As He approached town, the crowd praised God for the miracles they had seen. The Pharisees wanted Jesus to quieten the crowd, but He said that if He did, that the rocks would cry out. Meaning His word will never be silenced. How sad it would be to think all we have is what is here on earth. Christians know that we can look forward to eternal life.

At the close of services, we observed the Lord's Supper.

Pray for those in need of uplifting this week. Thank God for your blessings. "The key to Heaven was hung on the church teach the catechism he had written to its youth and children. Obviously, Calvin understood the importance of a good youth program. But there's something more here that we might have missed. This Reformer who was willing to sweep away anything he believed to be unsound steadfastly retained and resuscitated an educational method that can be traced in various forms back to Socrates: the venerable Q&A.

When we read through the Geneva Catechism, we are immediately struck by three things: (1) the sophistication of the answers placed in the mouths of young people and children; (2) the conversational tone sustained throughout as though the minister (or author, in Calvin's case) is engaged as a peer with a twelve year old; and (3) the confidence reflected by the questions asked. The first two points are worthy of reflection, but today I want to focus on the third point, the particular kind of confidence

GOOD QUESTION

When John Calvin agreed to return to Geneva after his first failed attempt to lead its church, he returned with a requirement that reflected by the questions of the catechism—a confidence in the truth of the gospel and the claims of the Christian faith upon our lives.

In one of Flannery O'Connor's last-published short stories, entitled "The Enduring Chill,"[1] we meet a young man who has returned home to die (or so he believes). He is arrogant, pretentious, intellectually proud, and impatient. He decides he wants to see a priest, but not just any priest. He pictures in his mind the dramatic interest of his end-of-life conversations with a well-educated priest, a person of culture as well as religion.

To his irritation, the instead of an urbane, worldly, sophisticated, and slightly cynical Jesuit (the priest of his imagining), the priest who actually arrives at his bedside introduces himself as follows: "I'm Fahther Finn—from Purrgatory.' And, instead of responding to the "dying" young man's questions about the literary merits of James Joyce, or the significance of myths behind the world's religions, the priest insists on asking the questions: "Now. Do you say your morning and night prayers? . . . You don't eh? Well you will never learn to be good unless you pray regularly. You cannot love Jesus unless you speak to Him. Do you have trouble with purity? . . . We all do but you must pray to the Holy Ghost for it. Mind, heart and body. Nothing is overcome without prayer. Pray with your family. Do you pray with your family?"

By this point the proud young intellectual is almost fit to be tied. He isn't having the kind of conversation he has imagined. And at the suggestion that he should pray with his family he shouts, "God forbid . . . My mother doesn't have time to pray and my sister is an

The simple priest responds, "A shame! ... Then you must pray for them.

The conversation only becomes more tense from here on out as the young man attempts again to steer toward the comfortable shores of the arts, saying, "The artist prays by creating," to which the old priest responds, "Not enough! . . If you do not pray daily, you are neglecting your immortal soul. Do you know your catechism?"

Here the young man feels on firm ground. He doesn't need a catechism. He is an intellectual, an artist, free to experience the world and form his own opinions of it. 'Certainly not!"

The priest moves on relentlessly, not justifying, not explaining, just walking through the catechism.

'Who made you?"

"Different people believe different things about that," the young man replies.

'God made you," the priest says. "Who is God?

"God is an idea created by man," the young man answers.

The old priest knows better. "God is a spirit infinitely perfect," sighs the priest. "Why did God

The young man starts to deny the premise, but the priest cuts him off. "God made you to know Him, to love Him, to serve Him in this world and to be happy with Him in Exasperated, the priest at last young man on how to receive the Holy Spirit, the old priest leaves. The last thing the young man hears the priest say, however, is a comment to his mother: "He's a good lad at heart but very ignorant. What strikes me most in this wonderful, sad, and funny story is the confidence of the priest. He knows that the questions received in the catechism-fashionable or not—are the real questions at the very heart of life. The old priest standing beside the young man's sick bed, tenaciously asking questions the young man brushes aside, reminds us of what faith looks like and the contribution it can make to knowledge. Questions like some of the great questions in the catechism remind us that sometimes going deeper means asking tried and very true questions, whatever the preoccupations and distractions of contemporary culture may say about what matters most.

A member of a congregation I served told me the story of her niece who, in her first philosophy course in college, reflexively responded to the professor's (perhaps rhetorical) question, "What is She answered immediately,

"God is Spirit, infinite, eternal, and unchangeable, in his being, wisdom, power, holiness, justice, goodness, and truth." The answer amazed the professor who asked, "Where in the world did you come up with that? That's brilliant!" To which she responded, "The Westminster Shorter Catechism." A recovery of confidence for the church might begin when we remember that the cloud of witnesses is on our side, and they are not silent.

ADDRESSING STORM-DAAGED WOODLANDS

It's difficult to be completely prepared for some of the severe weather in Kentucky, especially the recent tornado outbreak. But, advanced planning can help ensure that your loved ones and your property will be as safe as possible if disaster strikes. The same concept of preparation applies to woodland owners managing their property after storm Kentucky woodland owners should learn about safety in storm-damaged woods, storm timber assessment, types of damage and locations that can affect salvage intensity and timing. It's best to work with a local professional forester to make these deci-

Woodland owners should start by having a written management plan that contains a map of the property, stated objectives, an inventory of what trees are growing where, access considerations, management activities and important contact information. Your written plan will be especially important if you are forced to adapt your woodland management activities because of storm damage. Pre-planning can save you critical time after a disaster. A checklist can be a good method of starting and staying on task while dealing with any disaster. When you use the list along with a plan and a map, it's a great way to keep track of your preparedness and woodland management related actions after a storm involve gaining access to the property, assessing timber damage and then salvaging the damaged timber. So it's a good idea to have a good access plan that will allow you to act quickly after a The timber damage assessment is an important first step in

USDA announces milk income loss

This year, Arbor Day will have special meaning to several communities across the Commonwealth that are being recognized in the Tree City UŠA program. The cities of Bellevue, Kingsley and Lyndon will be recognized for their 10th consecutive year as a Tree City USA, while the cities of Carrollton, Florence and Paducah will be recognized for their 20th consecutive year.

The Tree City USA program is sponsored by the Arbor Day Foundation in cooperation with the National Association of State Foresters, the USDA Forest Service, and state forestry agencies. Tree City USA communities must have a tree board or department, a tree care ordinance, a community forestry program with annual expenditures of at least $2 per capita, and an Arbor Day observance and proclama-

HELPING CHILDREN COPE WITH NATURAL DISASTERS

Much of the attention on the tornadoes that wreaked havoc across the state March 2 has focused on how adults are coping, recovering and rebuilding. Children, both inside and outside the affected areas, might need help coping with the aftermath of the natural disasters too.

Children living in tornadodamaged areas might have lost their homes, families, possessions and familiar routines as a result of the storms. One of the ways you can help your children cope is by reestablishing some of the routines you had before the tornadoes. Having the same bedtime routine, eating familiar foods and replacing lost possessions, such as toys, can help both you and your child cope. Children respond to the events on a different timetable than adults. It may take them much longer to express their feelings about what has happened. Just because they aren't talking about the situation, doesn't mean they are not troubled or saddened by it. It's important to keep the conversation flowing and allow the child to express their feelings about the disaster. You will likely have many conversations over the vears about how this event impacted your lives.

After a storm, children may ask a lot of questions, some of which could be difficult for you to answer. It's important to answer questions honestly and clear up any misconceptions. If you don't have an answer, you and your children may be able to look up one together.

Even though your child has been through a traumatic situation, it's important to keep their behaviors in check. Rules can be reassuring to a child who feels like they have no control. Give children simple chores to do, and make sure they understand that hitting someone or taking things from others is not allowed.

Just because a child lives a good distance from where the tornadoes hit doesn't mean they were not affected. Perhaps you had family or friends in the affected areas. If possible, allowing your child to have contact with that person can assure them that they are safe. Try to limit your children's media exposure, as constant reminders of the tragedy may be unsettling or disturbing to your children. If you don't have loved ones in these areas, your children may still be affected. You should make yourself available and open to answer any questions they have. Listen to what your children are saying, thinking and feeling. It's important to reassure your children and correct misunderstandings. Some children may be afraid that a similar thing will happen in their community. You can help them by talking about ways you could prepare for disasters and reassure them you'll do everything you can to keep them safe. Sometimes all children need to know is that you love them and will protect them to the best of your ability.

For more information on coping with natural disasters, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.

CRP training introduces new initiative

This month, the Conservation Professional Training Program is introducing a new initiative to train a national group of conservation professionals to provide the services associated with Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) planning, implementation, and management. A team led by the University of Wisconsin-Extension and comprised of national university Extension staff, Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and Farm Service Agency (FSA) staff, and representatives from NRCS partner agencies and organizations has collaborated to streamline the trainings and make them accessible, convenient, and consistent across all states. The new initiative, funded by USDA NRCS, is called the Conservation Reserve Program Readiness Initia-

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) gives farmers and landowners technical assistance and a financial incentive to reduce soil erosion and runoff, leading roved water quality and wildlife habitat. Upon acceptance under a general or continuous program signup, a landowner requires a conservation plan. Natural Resources Conservation Service employees and conservation partners provide most of the technical services to landowners for CRP planning. The CRP Readiness Initiative offers training to a broader range of professionals to assist NRČS in developing CRP conservation plans for landowners who are enrolled or will be enrolled in CRP. The initiative will allow NRCS to draw upon a trained and qualified pool of CRP conservation planners when heavy signups for CRP occur. Use be on a state by state basis depending on the need for assistance. Participants in the CRP Readiness Initiative will be trained to create, implement and maintain all or parts of these plans based on a detailed knowledge of national and state conservation practices. "Assisting landowners in getting conservation on the ground is the end goal of the CRPRI. By training and mentoring technical service providers and current partners for CRP conservation planning, we increase the capacity and availability of conservation professionals qualified and ready to prepare high-quality conservation plans that protect soil, water quality and wildlife habitats," said Tony Kramer, Deputy Chief of Programs for NRCS. Independent conservation professionals, technical service providers, members of conservation associations, and employees of organizations with formal connections to NRCS are encouraged to participate.

Participants in the CRP Readiness Initiative will have the opportunity to attend a FREE two-day training workshop, work directly with a project mentor, participate in online forums and webinars, and sign up for supplemental training courses as needed. A free core training workshop will be held in Memphis, TN on April 16th and 17th. During the summer of 2012, the training will be transitioned to an online format, which will be available for a course fee. Some of the topics to be covered during the free core workshops include: understanding the landowner's objectives, developing a CRP plan according to national and state guidelines, and CRP best practices for conserva-

GET READY TO GO CAMPING Spring has sprung and before you know it, summer will be here. 4-H Camp is a great way to fill those lazy summer days. At 4-H Camp, young people learn independence, responsibility, have a lot of fun and make many 4-H camps are open to all

Kentucky youth between the ages of 9 and 14. Many exciting activities and adventures await campers. 4-H'ers can spend their days participating in activities ranging from swimming to nature hikes. Not only do many children find these activities fun, but they will likely learn new skills and develop a greater appreciation for the environment and wildlife. 4-H personnel want your child to have camping experience that is not only memorable, but safe. All camp staff and volunteers are trained and undergo background checks prior to camp. Each camp location will have an on-site emergency medical technician at all times to take care of campers' needs. Campers will attend one of four regionally-located camps. All four camps have been accredited since 2005 by the American Camp Association. 4-H members from Pendleton County will attend the North Central Camp in Carlisle, KY from July 2nd - 5th. Registration forms are due by June 1st.

For more information about 4-H Camp, contact the Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service or visit the 4-H Camp website at http://www2. ca.uky.edu/4-h/camp.

There is a lot more activity going around here this morning because six of our children are home from school on spring

It makes it a little harder for me to concentrate to sit down and write this column. I should have written this before everyone was awake, but the extra sleep sure gave me a better start.

We had a delicious meal of homemade breakfast burritos before starting our day.

It is now 10 a.m. and everyone is busy doing something. Elizabeth, 17, and Susan, 16, are gathering laundry that needs to be washed. Verena, 14, Loretta, 11, and Lovina, 7, are washing dishes and sweeping the floors. Benjamin, 12, Joseph, 9, and Kevin, 6, are headed out to the barn to clean out the chicken

Elizabeth found out the twins that she babysits for are sick so she does not have to go to work

After she is done with laundry she wants to work on getting her dress, cape and apron cut out and start sewing on it. Her friend Timothy's brother is getting married in a few weeks. Timothy and Elizabeth will each have a part in the wedding and she needs a certain color of dress.

I am enjoying sewing on my sewing machine again since our friend stopped by to give my machine a tune-up. It was the first time in nine years that it has had one. It is really working well again. Sewing is so much more fun and easier if your sewing machine works OK. I started to make Kevin a few more pants and it looks like loseph needs a few more.

It doesn't take long for the boys to have holes in their pants. I need to put patches on them for the ones they wear at home and make new ones for school.

Easter will be Sunday already so the children want to color eggs this week. I will probably not let them color as many dozens as we usually did.

Our chickens are laying around 16 eggs a day so it is getting hard to keep up outside. We want to get another batch of little chicks started this spring. We plan to order some broilers to butcher so we have our own chicken in the freezer.

five miles from here and a quick, easy run with the horse and buggy. It was on the outside edge of town and we didn't have to battle traffic on the busy highway. Now we'll have to drive the horse and buggy farther and onto more crowded roads to go to a Also on our list to do this week is to make some horseradish to use with the hard-boiled eggs for Easter. We will have church services at our neighbors for Eas-Joe will be off from work this Good Friday. We will hide eggs for the children on Friday because we won't be home Sunday. The children like to find candy-filled eggs out in the yard. All of these activities are fun but we always make the children understand what the true meaning of Lovina's eye had a bad scratch on the cornea last week. She was home from school for three days with a very painful eye. One day last week she asked me if she could have carrots for lunch. She said, "I heard eating carrots are good for your eyes." It made me smile that she thought of that. The eye doctor prescribed some eye drops and it seemed to help heal the eye.

Now she doesn't act like she has any side effects from it.

Jacob, Emma and family had dinner here yesterday. Joe grilled T-bone steaks and we also had mashed potatoes, gravy, tea, macaroni and cheese, carrot sticks and ranch dip, sliced cheese, white cake, rhubarb coffeecake, cherry delight and peaches. Lovina mixed the white cake so she was proud to see it all ate up.

I will share the recipe for the
